recognition of prior learning (RPL)

RPL emerges from a global demand to increase access to higher education. RPL policies encourage providers to develop systems that enable the recognition of learning, allowing previously disadvantaged people, for whatever reason, to be able to access to a learning pathway in higher education. The RPL driving force is social justice and fairness, so no-one should be excluded from higher education. At eta College, RPL can enable access to a qualification that allows you to work in the fast-growing sport and fitness sector, where competent employees are critical for the growth of the profession (Skills Development Act, 1998, Skills Development Amendment Act, 2008).

There are different types of RPL, which includes the following:

- RPL for Access process which is specifically designed for those students who have not been able to meet the minimum requirements for access.
- If you have prior formal learning in credit-bearing modules or a completed qualification, it is possible for such credits to be recognised and for you to be exempt from learning you have already completed.
- If you are someone of advanced standing and did not complete a Matric (NSC) or your results were not sufficient to access higher education in the past, your work and life experience may enable you to access higher learning now.
- If you have relevant and recent work experience that matches the learning in the qualification you want, it is possible for your knowledge and skills to be recognised and to access a higher education pathway. You may even be exempt from some modules if your work experience has given you the right level of knowledge and skills.
